Profession: INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

Nationality: Kenyan

I have achieved much in the career as an Information Technology professional, hold a prestigious Bachelor's Degree in the field and greatly committed to results. I have a strong background in network administration, System Administration as well as software development. My major is web development, and particularly in this field, I am front-end with React and Django for the backend frameworks' specialization. Over the past 1 years, I have honed my skills and expertise in creating dynamic and responsive web applications.

Looking beyond particular projects, my interest spans further and I am driven with the desire of contributing something meaningful towards the success of my country specifically in the field of technological advancement. Proficient to configure and maintain server environment, implementing advanced security protocols along with leading cross-functional IT teams ensure that I possess the skill set required to enhance efficiency as well as productivity.

In dynamic field of technology, I remain focused on being ahead of emerging trends and innovation. This ensures that quality IT solutions that are over above the other offers in the market reach the customers in good time.

It will be a great opportunity for me to use my technical competence as well as top-notch leadership skills. Using my skills, I make it a point to contribute essentially in the technological strides of our nation and hence see to it that the IT scenario of the country always stays ahead in terms of innovation.
